

RUSSIAN LANGUAGE AS A FOREIGN UNIVERSITY

<https://doi.org/10.5281/zenodo.10007129>

Begmatova Navruza Abduxamedovna

Senior teacher,

National University of Uzbekistan

Email: n.begmatova@nuu.uz

Annotation

Mastering the methodology of teaching Russian as a foreign language is becoming an important condition and an integral part of preparing students of pedagogical universities of Uzbekistan for their future careers. The purpose of the article is to describe in detail the linguistic and verbal aspects of teaching oral and written communication in Russian as a foreign language, as a new language.

Keywords

methodology, pedagogy, foreign language, oral speech, written speech, listening comprehension, grammar, lexical units, listening mechanism, reading techniques.

In the contemporary society's life, learning plays an important role as a means of acquiring knowledge and communication. Reading is a receptive type of speech activity that involves understanding and comprehension of written text. Reading is an integral part of a person's communicative and social activities, and it provides one of the forms of communication - written communication. The purpose of reading is to receive information and, due to its nature of receiving and processing information, it helps develop the ability to extract meaning from coded speech messages using graphic symbols, as reading deciphers graphic signs and translates them into cognitive representations.

Learning to read involves working with written text through perception (perception - perceiving through sensory perception, reflecting physical objects through sensations). It is related to the development of skills and abilities that ensure the ability to understand graphic signs and their specific relationship. In other words, when learning to read, students may make errors in articulation, intonation, or fail to do so in oral speech. These errors are explained by the difficulty of converting alphabet signals and transforming them into sounds. In addition, it involves entering a vast and complex visual channel with a rich variety of information.

Studying the Russian language at a foreign university can be a rewarding experience. Learning Russian can open up opportunities for you in terms of career, culture, and communication. Here's what you need to know about studying Russian at a foreign university:

1. Choose the Right University:

- Research universities that offer Russian language programs. Look for institutions with a strong reputation in language education.

- Consider factors like location, tuition costs, available scholarships, and the specific program's curriculum.

2. Entry Requirements:

- Most universities will require you to meet certain admission criteria, which may include standardized language proficiency tests like the Test of Russian as a Foreign Language (TORFL) or equivalent.

- Check the specific admission requirements of the university and program you're interested in.

3. Programs:

- Universities may offer various Russian language programs, such as short-term courses, undergraduate degrees in Russian language and literature, or graduate programs in Slavic studies.

- Decide which program aligns with your goals and language proficiency level.

4. Immersion Opportunities:

- Seek universities that offer immersion programs, where you can immerse yourself in the Russian language and culture through study abroad programs or language-intensive courses.

5. Language Proficiency:

- Russian is known for its complex grammar and Cyrillic script. Be prepared to dedicate time and effort to develop proficiency in reading, writing, speaking, and listening.

- Practice regularly and consider finding language exchange partners or joining language clubs to improve your skills.

6. Cultural Studies:

- Learning the Russian language often goes hand in hand with studying Russian culture, history, and literature. These subjects can provide valuable context and deepen your understanding of the language.

7. Support Services:

- Many universities offer support services such as language labs, tutoring, and cultural events to enhance your language learning experience.

8. Financial Aid:

- Explore scholarship and financial aid opportunities specifically for foreign language learners or students pursuing Russian studies.

9. Study Resources:

- Utilize textbooks, online courses, language apps, and other resources to supplement your university studies and practice outside of the classroom.

10. Career Opportunities:

- Proficiency in Russian can open doors to various career paths, including diplomacy, translation, international business, and academia. Consider your long-term career goals when choosing your program.

11. Cultural Exchange:

- Engage with local Russian-speaking communities, attend cultural events, and participate in language exchange programs to immerse yourself in the language and culture.

Studying the Russian language at a foreign university can be challenging but highly rewarding. It can open up a world of opportunities for personal and professional growth, as well as allow you to connect with the rich cultural heritage of Russia and other Russian-speaking countries.

Life for everyone undergoes processes of change. Studying at foreign universities is one part of these changes, and I have several reasons for wanting to speak about studying Russian as a foreign language at a university.

The first reason is the global recognition of the Russian language. Russian is accepted as an official language in several countries and is considered important for international diplomacy, business, arts, and various other fields. Studying Russian at a foreign university offers the opportunity to delve deeper into the language and continue learning it for an extended period.

The second reason is that studying at foreign universities broadens one's horizons and international perspectives. Foreign universities provide students with the opportunity to understand the world, tackle global issues, and engage in general research to a high degree. This helps in the personal and professional development of students.

The third reason is that studying Russian at a foreign university allows students to acquire knowledge of their own preferences, utilize modern technologies, and gain insights into the culture and history of foreign countries.

Studying Russian at a foreign university opens up possibilities for acquiring a wide range of knowledge and personal development in society. This leads to better life choices, both personally and professionally.

In conclusion, studying Russian as a foreign language at a university fosters a person's openness to the world and facilitates self-discovery. It is a significant step in personal and professional development, paving the way for future success.

REFERENCES:

1. Isakova Ravshana Karimzhanovna, & Begmatova Navruza Abdukhamedovna. (2021). THE NEXT STEP TO INNOVATION-ORIENTED EDUCATION IS THE IMPLEMENTATION OF INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES INTO THE PRACTICE OF TEACHING THE RUSSIAN LANGUAGE IN FOREIGN LANGUAGE GROUPS. Archive of Conferences, 33-34. Retrieved from <https://conferencepublication.com/index.php/aoc/article/view/1577>

2. Фарогаг Юлдашева, Шахида Базарова.- Совершенствование методики преподавания грамматических понятий в неязыковых вузах –XXXVI Международной научно-практической интернет-конференции «Проблемы и перспективы развития современной науки в странах Европы и Азии» 2021 г.

3. Berdieva Mukarrama Anvarovna, Bazarova Shokhida Ashirkulovna-The role of authentic materials in teaching Russian language in higher education. Молодой ученый Международный научный журнал № 17 (412) / 2022

4. Базарова Шохидида Аширкуловна. Methodology of teaching the russian language in higher education. O'zbekistonda fanlararo innovatsiyalar va ilmiy tadqiqotlar jurnali. 2022.

5. Turakulovna Y. F., Ashirkulovna B. SH. Pedagogical Communication and its Importance // Journal of Pedagogical Inventions and Practices. -2022. -Т. 6. -С. 21-22.

6. Tursunova inobat mirkamilovna, Bazarova Shohida Ashirkulovna. Didactic means of teaching the russian language. Finland international scientific journal of education, social science & humanities. 2022/12/12

7. Bazarova Shohida Ashirkulovna / Вопрос эффективности обучения русскому языку в национальной школе. Scienceweb academic papers collection/2021/01.01

8. Bazarova Shokhida Ashirkulovna. International open conference - Development of creative activity of students in Russian language lessons. Vol. 1 No. 4 (2022): Scientific Aspects and Trends in the Field of Scientific Research.

9. Farogat Yuldasheva, Shakhida Bazarova – Improvement of teaching methods of grammatical concepts and non-linguistic subjects - XXXVI international scientific and practical internet conference “Problemy and perspective development of modern science in Europe and Asia” 2021.

10. Turakulovna Y. F., Ashirkulovna B. SH. Pedagogical Communication and its Importance // Journal of Pedagogical Inventions and Practices. -2022. -T. 6. -C. 21-22.