Introduction: Grammar is sometimes that people feel confusing even in their mother tongue. Many people speak English without difficulties, but most likely still feel uncertain about how to use certain grammar rules correctly. In this article, we will explain how to learn English grammar easily. As we know, it is very crucial to take into account the age and psychological state of applicants when learning a foreign language. It is necessary to pay special attention to it, especially when learning English. In the decisions of the President, attention was paid to this issue which learning foreign language like native language. In fact, grammar material is not provided to first graders in foreign language teaching.

Now, the information is given a brief definition of grammar here. According to the definitions given in the dictionaries, grammar is a system of rules and principles followed in the construction of oral and written speech; is a science that studies the structure of words and sentences. At first glance, English grammar may seem like the most difficult set of rules to learn. However, the real truth is not like that. As difficult, confusing and boring as English grammar may seem, it can become one of the simplest and easiest things in the world for an applicant to learn in a matter of seconds. Only desire is enough for this! Observations confirm that the demand for learning the English language or English grammar has gone up several times over the last period. This figure despite motivating the increase of new grammar resources and scientific articles, even motivates to think about ways to learn English grammar more easily. Based on the above requirement, in this article I decided to make the following recommendations according to my knowledge and experience regarding the easy learning of English grammar. I believe that they will serve as effective methods for applicants who are just beginning to study English grammar or who are continuing to study grammar. In order to learn English grammar effectively and most importantly easily in months, it is basic to follow these tried and tested, reliable and simple instructions that give good results:

1. Before learning English grammar, you need to know where to begin

A person who does not know his mother tongue cannot learn a foreign language perfectly. It is very good to start learning English grammar, but learning the grammar of a foreign language will be easier if you study the grammar of the Uzbek language first or repeat the existing knowledge. Despite the fact that English and Uzbek grammars are very different in terms of structure, origin and study, the basic grammar concepts used in language learning are the same in these two languages. Therefore, it is possible to better understand English grammar by comparing, contrasting, and combining common concepts. The better one knows one's mother tongue, the better one understands its grammar rules, the easier it is to learn English grammar.

2. LISTEN TO OTHERS

We all know and can use the grammar of our mother tongue very well even if we never spent time studying it. As a matter of fact, children start to speak before they even know the word "grammar". As a child, we learn the grammar of our native language through practical examples. We also use it only when we feel we really need it or if we are corrected by our parents. The good part here is that you can use this same method to learn English grammar or any language grammar. You simply need to learn it in context, the way a child learns when he or she is first beginning to speak. Instead of spending hours obsessed with grammar textbooks, first, try reading and listening to as much English as possible in natural contexts.

3. Do not be afraid to make mistakes

Learning grammar is about gaining understanding by constantly making mistakes and correcting them. During the period of learning grammar, the applicant may feel bad as a result of making mistakes then they may be disappointed when performing exercises on one or another topic, his enthusiasm for learning may dropped and, as a result, he may spend more energy on regretting his mistakes than on learning. When they know that learning by making mistakes is interesting, useful and memorable, the above bad feelings can never stop them. Do not be afraid to make mistakes when learning English grammar. Even if there is a mistake, the applicant should try to express his opinion on the topic. The first thing is not try harder that is the try smarter. Everything is possible to make and to create good and proper atmosphere for taking motivate and carrying on studying without distraction.

4. The applicant must repeat what he has learned often.

It is better to spend 3 minutes every day repeating a grammar rule that you have learned once than spending 3 hours once a week. The main focus should be on how often the repetition is carried out, not how long the repetition process lasts. If the applicant does not repeat the knowledge he has learned, he should not forget that he may be separated from this knowledge in a short time. Knowledge is strengthened only by repetition. The applicant can repeat the existing knowledge by doing the grammar exercises in the English grammar exercise set, reading grammar rules, or conducting grammar questions and answers with a friend. And also there are some interesting ways for beginners level of students to learn english grammar. For instance, using methods of finding picture, watching video in addition quizzes are one of the beat way to learn spelling of words.

5. Do not just learn English. Live inside the English language!

Most people have some ideas and thought about it is very challenging understand the grammar of a language by simply learning it. They find some methods to learn English grammar easily, it is not enough to memorize grammar rules, read grammar books or attend boring grammar classes over and over again. First of all, in facilitating the learning of grammar is to understand the meaning of each of its rules, feeling the whole structure of the grammar of the language. In a word, in order to learn grammar, it is necessary to understand it at the level of being able to feel it with the whole body and to be able to introduce this concept into mental life. How can this be done? The applicant wants to learn the subject of the numeral in English grammar. For this, it is necessary not only to read the rules about the number. They should take a pen and a new sheet of paper and create for themselves the simplest, most understandable, most interesting rule that they can imagine about the topic. If necessary, he should record additional concepts. But these writings should not be as complicated as in the books, the main thing is that they should be natural in harmony with the views of the applicant! Only then, concepts of the number topic that are suitable for the applicant, understandable and, most importantly, convenient for him to learn, will begin to appear. In this way, he can easily learn English grammar based on his wishes, style, and views, adapting each topic to himself. It is not the external environment that is important, but the most important thing is the attitude towards the work being done.

Conclusion: The recommendations which we gave previous pages for learning English grammar are just some of the thousands of ways to learn. Apart from these, there are many ways to learn English grammar easily. To implement them, the student must have deep knowledge of grammar, of course. At the same time, learning grammar is a special science. It is necessary for every student of English to master this science. Summarizing the above points, it is desirable for applicants to learn English grammar in a fun way. However, it is worth mentioning that as an interesting and effective way to learn grammar, the student must first fully understand the grammatical material of the topic and only after that he should use them to clarify and strengthen the material.
